Comments: People should respect nature and the wilderness. The animals were there first. It's their home. We should respect that. When the wilderness is gone it's gone . There is no more. We need wilderness to be a balance in our lives as well as the world. It also balances the biological systems needed for the worlds survival. Animals need large areas to roam uninhibited be humans to survive. I believe that motorized vehicles, snowmobiles, bikes (motorized) should not be allowed to go further into the wilderness and disturb wildlife further. Accidents happen quickly but help would be further away and more costly to get there.
