Comments: I believe you should not consider these motorized vehicles. What we all love about the parks and wild lands is the opportunity to see these incredible places in peace and be able to get away from crowds of people. The majority of people that use these motorized bikes are more youthful and many race and chase wildlife. In many states like Idaho, they chase down wolves and deer, foxes and coyotes just to torture, hit and kill them. If older people and find ways to see these beautiful areas, without these bikes, so can younger people. Wildlife deserve a place to find peace and live their lives according to their species. Little by little animal rights and the rights of so many human beings that appreciate the wilderness for its calm, beauty and peace, are lessening. It's about the land and the animals, so let everyone find a calm, peaceful and protecting way of seeing them. Don't take away everyones rights for a few that want motorized vehicles.
