Comments: I love ebikes for commuting and city riding, but they have no place in a wilderness. Wilderness designation SPECIFICALLY says no motorized vehicles, which is exactly what ebikes are. Bikes in general are very hard on the land, and because they go farther and faster they can impact a much greater area than hikers. Treating motorized ebikes would only compound the impact, tearing up huge amounts of area. Please, continue to classify ebikes as what they really are, motorized vehicles.
