Comments: Not even maybe. No ebikes in the wilderness.

They destroy the quiet, run down hikers, kill snakes and anything in their path.

Not only that, but they're dangerous to the people who ride them: If you aren't fit enough to ride a regular bike, you'd take an ebike into the woods. And then get stranded because you aren't strong enough to get yourself out, thus endangering all the search and rescue teams who have to go out looking for you.

Also, could we pick a worse time to let more engines and combustible things into the woods? An ebike could spark a fire that could destroy hundreds of thousands of acres.

No. Just no. No and no and no and no.
