Comments: Lame attempt. We know exactly what you're up to--you think that, by specifically singling out electrically motivated bikes, you'll trick us into making exclusions to the "no powered vehicle" regulation. Then, you'll make wholesale reversal of all the laws governing all types of motored vehicles and open OUR national forests to your corporate sugar daddies/past and/or future bosses to destroy.

Although a transparent trick, it doesn't make what you're really scheming any less disgusting.

Note to the top politically installed, completely unqualified, bureaucratic suits: since you revel in destroying Nature for filthy lucre, here's a sincere recommendation. Get off OUR planet, go find your own barren rock for you and your Wall Street fellow travelers to stain, spoil, rip apart. Don't worry, no one will cry for you...or even remember you.
