

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/22/2020 1:26:11 AM

First name: Jill

Last name: Raitt

Organization: University of Missouri

Title:

Comments: Motorized bikes on wilderness trails are frightening and noisy. Their riders intimidate hikers, their bikes rut trails and invite rain-runoff to further erode the trail, they are noisy. Experience with "Birds", motorized scooters, has resulted in their being banned on campus and in town because their drivers are often careless, cause accidents, and don't obey traffic rules.

Final word: I wouldn't want to walk a wilderness of forest trail if e-bikes were allowed. The beauty of the wilderness is its quiet, natural environment. I want to hear birdsong, bee-buzz, and hear warning growls of less friendly forest inhabitants. NO E-BIKES!