Comments: I strongly oppose opening up National parks and wilderness areas to mountain bikes, especially to ebikes. These do damage and cause erosion to hillsides, trample wildlife and plants, and sometimes interfere with hikers when bikes take the right of way on a trail. I am particularly concerned about damage to wildlife and soil quality over time. E bikes are akin to motor vehicles, and are capable of similar kinds of damage--please do not classify these as non-motor vehicles--they are not the same as bicycles. Please keep National parks and wilderness areas wild.
