Comments: I don't believe e-bikes should be allowed in National Forests, and national parks and BLM lands. Our world is already filled with modern conveniences. In fact we are overrun by technology. These three types of lands all represent wilderness to varying extents. They should not include the use of this type of technology for recreation, hunting, fishing, herding or other types of business. The ebikes represent a threat and disturbance to non-human inhabitants. Already, we know that humans run down wildlife on snowmobiles. This type of activity should not be made available to people using e-bikes. They can also cause serious erosion and other types of disturbances.
