

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/22/2020 3:21:30 PM

First name: Carolyn

Last name: Ostby

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I am nearly 70 years old and a lifelong user of National Forest lands. During my lifetime, I have watched habitats degrade, wildlife disappear, and spectacular landscapes destroyed by mindless human activity. The proposed rules to allow greater use of e-bikes sadly continues this trend. There are already over 50,000 miles of roads and trails open to e-bikes. Opening more public land to this motorized use, with the resulting degradation, is unnecessary and selfish. What is lost will be irreplaceable. How much more do we need to lose before we wake up?