Comments: This EIS is clearly inadequate. Beyond its simple inadequacy, it is in support of a project that stands to hurt the local community much more than it will benefit from mining activities. The South Fork is a resource whose intact value dwarfs the value to the community of the proposed mine. Idaho gains tremendous economic benefit from the existence of healthy lands and waters and this source of revenue and the cascading benefits of the recreation economy should not be taken for granted. We need an EIS for the Stibnite project that accounts for these indirect values drawn from the health of the South Fork and that can prove that the proposed development will have zero impact to the river system. Anything less should not be accepted.
