Comments: Please reconsider this move and continue to classify "e-bikes" as motorized vehicles that are subject to those laws regarding their use. Just because they don't make noise, does not change the speed with which they move and their ability to disrupt the natural world in a more significant way.

In fact, their speed combined with that very silence means that wildlife may not have the opportunity to avoid human interaction since they won't have as much notice that we are treading their territory.

Nature is under enough stress with fires and hunting and humans who are "loving it to death." Let's not add to that burden.
