Comments: e-bikes are motor vehicles - trying to walk on a path with human driven bikes is difficult enough, but adding bikes that go even faster will hurt people trying to just walk. I wish these could be not allowed, except on city streets, and only then if treated like regular motor vehicles - licensed, and driven by licensed humans. If a person wants to ride a bike, it should involve actual physical exercise. The possible injuries involved are far greater with an e-bike than a regular bike for all involved.
