Comments: I was an avid Mtn Biker for over 30 years until medical issues that have all but prevented me from riding trails. Friends and family pitched in to buy me a pedal assist eMTB, which has provided me the physical and mental recreation I need to exist. The bike is quite, looks like a Mtn bike and requires me to pedal or it does not go. The big advantage for me is it help tremendously on hills and allow me to ride the distances I use to before my illness. To classify these as as a motorized vehicle is wrong. I don't press a button or turn a throttle to make it go. I actually have to use my legs to create motion.
