Comments: As someone familiar with e-bikes, I consider them to be much closer to bicycles on the spectrum than any form of 'motorized vehicle'. Most ebikes are just slightly/moderately easier to ride than regular bicycles and they generally allow for a similar experience to bicycles for riders who are less fit/mobile/strong than conditioned mountain bikers. I support the rules that allow for open access as the default, and oppose rules that state that bikes under 750W should be in any other category than bicycles themselves. Thank you.
