Comments: I just don't understand you people or what you are supposed to represent. Why add destructive vehicles and destructive behavior to a fragile living landscape that needs to be protected from this type of damaging activity? This is insane! How about all of you that want to allow these vehicles and the crowds it will attract invite them to ride on your property, front and backyard, Then try and live your life as you would normally just like you expect the animals to do, then when they leave, you can sit there with a torn up garden and the trash that some people always leave behind. Or, do you think your garden will look as good as it did before they got there?
