Comments: Of course, the billionaires who have corrupted our government been given carte blanche by the Trump administration have organized a letter writing campaign to convince you to let them despoil the earth for money, as they have been allowed to so many other places. You would think there is such a thing as enough. Listen only to environmental organizations when making mining decisions. They are the opposite of a special interest. Their only concern is the long-term flourishing of all of us, and all of our decedents. You should steward our irreplaceable natural resources conservatively.
