Comments: This is an absolutely horrible proposal! It's bad enough as an avid hiker to have to contend with mountain bikers on what are fundamentally pedestrian trails. It's a completely different mindset in the user, which in combination with the equipment, impacts the environment in a significantly more detrimental way. I can't tell you how many times I've been forced rapidly off the trail to avoid getting plowed by people on mountain bikes. This would only be exacerbated by adding e-bikes to the mix.
