Comments: My husband and I live in an area surrounded by National Forests and hike the trails almost daily in the summertime and fall. I vehemently oppose allowing e-bikes on these trails. People go into the woods for serenity. These vehicles are motorized and as such should only be allowed on trails that permit motorized vehicles. There are many of these. There are also mountain bike parks specific to such travel. E-bikes are capable of speedy travel, making them hazardous. They would further stress wildlife. They would also further erode and damage the condition of the existing trails, of which many are already in disrepair due to the lack of personnel to care for them. I think this would be an egregious error! I can't even imagine that the forest service is proposing this. Count me as against e-bikes on trails... adamantly so!
