Comments: Yes, EMTB's need to be allowed on all public lands. It enables all persons, with and without disabilities, to continue to be active and healthy well into their senior years.

Access for EMTB's align with the statement from the US Forest Service:

"The Forest Service is committed to integrating accessibility into the complete range of recreation opportunities while protecting natural resources and settings so that all people, including people who have disabilities, have the opportunity to enjoy the great outdoors."
