

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/25/2020 6:26:58 PM

First name: Aleta

Last name: Seifert

Organization:

Title:

Comments: This is a bad idea. If they are shared use trails, it's a recipe for disaster for a horseback rider. These bikes travel relatively fast and make no noise and can come upon an unsuspecting horse in a heartbeat. One approaching a horse from behind is most dangerous. Even if the bike rider is courteous and means no harm, coming around a corner and quickly encountering a horseback rider is inevitable. The best broke horse will be spooked by a fast moving silent vehicle such as this. I oppose!