Comments: My wife recently purchased a class 1 e mtb. The e mtb has made it easier for us to ride together on a variety of trails in our area. The pedal assist class 1 e mtb still requires pedaling, but it allows riders of varying levels of fitness to enjoy Mountain Biking together. We have noticed an increase in popularity of class 1 e bikes in our area, and it's been great to see 3 generations of a family riding together on a mix traditional Mtbs and e mtbs.

My wife and I think class 1 e mtbs that are pedal assist and do not have more than 750 watts of power, should be allowed on the same trails in the National Forest that traditional mtbs are allowed.
