I have a class 1 e-mtn bike. It has no throttle and can't go faster than 20 mph except downhill.

It's virtually silent, and it allows me to ride anything that isn't just flat pavement.

I'm 49 years old and have had knee problems my whole life. Without the bike I can't access backcountry or steep actual trails. I can hike, but not super far uphill. On my bike I can climb a vertical mile with ease. I can ride like I was 18 again!

I do no more harm to the environment than any other mtn bike, and regular bikes are much faster, except uphill.
