Comments: My concern for having bike riders on forest trails is for safety for myself, my husband and my handicapped daughter. We are horseback riders with seasoned trail horses, however it seems to me the bikes are incompatible with horseback riding due to the speed and the quietness with which they travel. This poses considerable risk to horse riders on the trail as they spook easily, especially when surprised by a quiet, fast moving object. I am als naturally opposed to closing horse trails to allow bike use. In my experience non horse riders seldom realize what they need to do to avoid a serious situation with horses on the trail and therefore make shared trail use dangerous for horse riders.
