Comments: This summer my friend and I were hit from behind on a narrow trail by a speeding cyclist while riding our horses. The cyclist then turned around and took off up the trail. Our terrified horses bolted, badly injuring both of us. Our local authorities are struggling with bike-hiker, bike-equestrian and bike-dog walker conflicts. All the above-mentioned groups move at the same speed and are respectful of others, with of course the exception of the cyclists. You are opening the door to increased use of these fragile trails and definitely increased risk of accidents by allowing ebikes on NON-MOTORIZED trails. What a ridiculous idea. Bowing to the bike manufacturers?
