Comments: On a daily basis I encounter electric bikes on the Boise Greenbelt. This is a paved bike path along the Boise River. Class 1 & 2 E-bikes are allowed, but I am sure Class 3 use the path as well. The riders of these bikes are, as a class, the rudest people on the Greenbelt. They ride faster than they are supposed to, and they cut way too close to other Greenbelt users.

I can't imagine what these people would be like out on a Forest Service trail. You will probably need a first aid station every mile or so. Plus, the people who resort to motorized bikes are not out there to enjoy nature, they are out there to go fast. Please do not approve this change.
