Comments: This will open every motor vehicle to trails meant for hiking or equestrian due to this has a motor, and I don't care how you spin this to make it sound like it does not. And as an equestrian I can see many lawsuits coming, mountain bikes are very quiet also and have caused many troubles for horses and there riders, and now you have something that can come from behind at 30 miles an hour quietly till that horse spots it in his vision which happens to be about 330 degrees which means he can't catch this out of his rear vision and will look to be a predator to that horse. Already folks have abandoned trails due to mountain bike use due to their wanting downhill speed, I can only image what this will do. And I know not all mountain bikers are irresponsible but enough are and there is little policing by the forest service so it even get worse since you will not generally get caught. It has a motor keep on those trails or roads. Only other thing that will influence this is just like the off road motorcycles that had money to give out to get access, which the forest service took and took our trails away in areas to make them happy, like in the Kennedy Meadows, Blackrock areas.
