Comments: I'm vehemently opposed to any motorized bikes on these trails. The fact that the engine is electrical as opposed to combustion is beside the point. These ebikes can go fast. That puts hikers, wildlife, and the habitat in jeopardy. And as technology increases, so will the capabilities of these machines, causing even more of a risk and general all-around nuisance.

Come on people... this is NATURE we're talking about. People go out here to escape civilization and the constant bombardment of tech devices! I'm sure you're all familiar with the phrase "getting back to nature", yes? Have respect for what little natural environment we have left.

So ebikes are gaining in popularity... so what?!? That just shows how lazy and out of shape our country is becoming. Allowing electric bikes on these trails would be the first step on a very slippery slope.
