

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/26/2020 10:57:21 AM

First name: Kathleen

Last name: Tostanoski

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Motorized vehicles inhibit the preservation of open space. There will always be a margin of population that will not respect/abide to legal restrictions in open spaces like National and Federal Forests. We see it everyday and spend state and federal money restoring open space destroyed by motorized vehicles. These are funds set aside in the event of repairs necessary after natural affects and environmental destruction. Ebikes and other electric motorized vehicles have the same capacity of destruction as any fossil fuel vehicle sometimes more... Batteries in electric vehicle yield a heavier machine than has powered vehicles. The added weight, accessibility, use, and availability will only increases the cost of maintaining open spaces through the years.