Comments: I see no reason why e-bikes should be treated any differently than mountain bikes and traditional bikes. I have been mountain biking for a very long time and I have yet to encounter or view a dustup involving an e-biker and a hiker, jogger or another biker. If anything, e-bikers seem to be a bit older, wiser and more considerate. What I have seen many times are hikers/walkers being rude or surly simply because they don't like bikes of any kind. People on foot seem to have a built in prejudice against sharing the trails with anyone. I am in favor of electric mountain biking without reservation.
