Comments: Mining causes irreversible damage to the environment, and should only be done when the need for the material merits it. Gold is plentiful and affordable, and global demand is stagnant.

Midas Gold isn't even a US company. Why should we let foreigners destroy our wilderness for their profits??

The Frank Church River of No Return Wilderness is more valuable as a recreational asset, and should be protected aggressively as such. As a boater I can tell you- the area is incomparable in beauty. There's no other place on earth like it, and it should be respected.
