Comments: Please open the wilderness to more people through the use of electric bicycles. So much of our great wilderness has extremely limited use through the first 1-x miles people can hike to, OR to the small portion of our society who can access through horses. If we love something, we need to get more people involved in it. I believe this is the same of wilderness. So few people enjoy it. Electric bicycles preserve the intent of the wilderness while opening it to me. I'm a 47 year old man who doesn't own horses. What percent of the wilderness do you think I really use?
