Comments: In the past 24 hours over 3000 comments have been submitted.

As midnight approaches the comments keep pouring in.

What does this suggest about the allotment of time for review and comment?

To not extend this comment period will be one of the biggest mistakes identified during this review process.

It's not too late to do the right thing.
"I was wrong." is one of the most inspirational bumper stickers you could place on a forest service vehicle.

Just saying,
