Comments: Logging Redbird

Dear DBNF administration:

I have submitted previous comments expressing my deep concern about these proposed logging projects in the Redbird district. And I have been watching very closely what is transpired and what is currently taking place since that time. Aside from being a KY resident that takes his girls to these beautiful forests often, I am also a concerned Citizen about how these processes are taking place, particularly the role of public input. My strong impression, again based on the DBNF administrations actions, is that public input is being ignored at best, and is seen as merely an irritant at worst. The DBNF seems to have devolved into a political entity that is not following in good faith well established processes for public involvement. I implore you all to do some serious soul-searching and reinstate the professionalism and objectivity that has historically been a mainstay of your agency.

Thank you
