Comments: Please do not euthanize these wild horses. They can be rehomed and live great lives rather than wasting away because it was deemed that there were too many in the area. They were there first, before cattle grazing rights. Survival of the fittest is still tried and true, and therefore leaving the correct numbers of the horses to graze and live out their days. I think gathering is cruel and inhumane, splitting families, chasing them while they are terrified, how horrific, but it might have to be done. Euthanizing on the other hand, does not need to occur unless a horse is gravely sick, or injured due to the treatment they receive (which is wrong)going to or at the corrals.
