Comments: I am writing in opposition to alternative 2 in the Sunflower Grazing Reauthorization and Wildlife Habitat Improvement Project. I have spent time out in the Ochoco National Forest and the impacts of cattle grazing are widespread, incredibly noticeable and very unfortunate. Reopening grazing on the Paulina Ranger District will negatively impact the riparian zones and the many sensitive plants and animals that depend on them, including threatened species like the Mid-Columbia steelhead trout. I urge you to consider either the No Action or Active Riparian Restoration Only alternatives instead.
