Comments: Have you ever been backpacking? Feeling the hard work to get out into the wilderness. A moment away from the busy and stressful lives that we live. Setting up camp near a lake, listening to the birds, pausing and breathing. Only to have a gunshot ripple through the valley walls. Vibrating into your soul. Suddenly feeling extremely exposed, vulnerable and frightened. Unsure what and who are shooting and if you are next. Literally sleeping with your bear spray fearful for the human(s) with gunpowder.

Dont open our National Forests to this trauma. People are not responsible. Accidents happen. We have very few places for refuge. Please dont ruin these Sacred places.
