Comments: I applaud the USFS for following the law and not giving in to those who want to eviscerate the constitution. The lawful use of public lands for sport shooting is, indeed, a right under the law. However, as the overwhelming majority of responsible, law abiding, lovers of freedom will agree, the misuse of those rights and ignoring the law requires a solution that protects rights and regulates the irresponsible and law breakers. The idea of a land agency sponsored and managed range is a smart solution. I frequently shoot at the range up in Keystone (I think it's city or county managed) because it's done well. You might assess what they've done. Regardless, thank you! Our constitutional rights are constantly being assaulted, and folks like me end up losing. I've never been in trouble with the law in my entire life. I'm vigorously law abiding, peaceful, retired from the Army after a 30 year career, married to the same wife my entire life (35 + years), and the father of two adult married daughters who are outstanding examples of character and values. We are not the problem and I get pretty damn tired of being treated like I am by folks trying to destroy my right to shoot.
