Comments: I bought my house in Lost Park Ranch in 2017. My goal was to have a some solitude and silence. There are times that I get just that (especially the winter and early spring), but there are other times in the summer that it sounds like I'm in a war zone. I don't have a problem with someone sighting in their hunting rifle, but I can't stand the sustained semi-auto shooting that sometimes lasts until 10:30 or later at night. It makes me feel uneasy taking my son up to our cabin when people, who are probably drunk, are popping off rounds late into the night in the surrounding national forest camp sites. Thanks for taking up this effort to restore a sense of peace and safety in and around our shared public lands.
