Comments: Dear National Forest at Ochoco - I got word of this new restoration project that also involves a timber sale. This sounded suspect to me and looking further into it, I highly disagree with your management decision to profit off the forest at the expense of the ecology of the Ochoco! The very place you vow to protect. I was there myself just this past Summer 2020 camping, and some times before that, and I can attest the forest is majestic in those parts. Please, for the love of the forests, after all the disturbance surrounding areas have faced, STOP logging here. Did I read correctly this is also up for new road construction? I am outraged. This is incredibly unsustainable, the last this area needs is development and de-wilding of any kind. We all know a "temporary" road just opens the door for more destruction, and often does not remain temporary. Best to not disturb in the first place, and do not develop more roads. I strongly do not support this. My faith in management's good judgement dwindles. I have personally worked many restoration projects myself, and this does not sound like a sustainable nor wise restoration project. A paycheck from timber sales, perhaps, but I ask you to do better by your forest-- and by your uniform.
