Comments: To Whom It May Concern: I apologize that I have no experience in this, and hope that, notwithstanding my inexperience, my comment will be considered. I have seen pictures of what cattle grazing does, very negatively, to PUBLIC lands. I have read reports that permit holders have used their own, obviously prejudiced, judgment to decide to kill a wolf, or eradicate an entire pack, in retaliation for the loss of even one member of the grazing herd. This should obviously not be allowed. Wolves are so important to any eco-system where they thrive. Look no further than the very positive outcome of reintroducing wolves to Yellowstone Park. Please, protect the wolves, many of who are nearing extinction. Please, require permit holders to return any grazing land, at the conclusion of any permit period, in the same condition it was prior to the grazing permit's being issued. Thank you.
