Comments: I am a female mountain biker that frequents the dirt roads outside of Colorado Springs to the SW to access the Jones Park and Gold Camp Rd/Old Stage Rd areas. As I pedal my bike farther up FS 379 the signs of irresponsible shooting become immediately obvious with trees shot apart by bullets, things like trash and bullets all over the place, and the fear of not knowing if the close crackle of bullets that I hear are pointed in the right direction or will ricochet off of a rock. It's a scary place to have to traverse, in addition to the unsightliness and terrible impact it has had on our beautiful National Forest. I am not against guns, and own a pistol myself, so I understand the desire to have a natural place to target shoot. I just request that it be done in a safe location and have measures in place to protect our lands from abuse.
