Comments: I have lived through logging operations in the Prescott National Forest for years now. I had to comment on this operation as I travel to Boggy Draw often to ride and hike there. As an avid mountain biker and hiker, I see what is left behind due to the logging operations and the negative impact it has on the trails and trail users. PLEASE hold the companies that do the logging accountable for re-creating the trails as they were before the logging started. In almost every instance, the trails are almost unusable if they are not policed. Such examples are not using existing roads when they could have, running over existing trails when they do not have to with heavy machinery, and even leaving machine equipment behind on or close to, the trails. All of this has happened in the Prescott National Forest, and it doesn't have to happen to you if they are held accountable during the logging process.
