Comments: Sandia Mountain is already badly scarred with roads, ski buildings and lifts, dumpsters, the tram, restaurant, and the gift shop. Adding a roller coaster would make it even worse. I have seen these coasters on other mountains, and they are very ugly and out of place. Coasters belong in amusement parks, not on mountains. They do not promote any useful activity for the individual riding them, unlike hiking or skiing or biking. A mountain is supposed to provide a quiet experience in Nature, not crowds of people - and their trash - riding a coaster. Why do you want to encourage people to come to the mountains if not to enjoy them as a natural environment? Human activity is already stressing the Sandias badly - don't add another contraption to draw people to come for all the wrong reasons!
