Comments: This is a dumb idea from start to finish. The folks that own the company have lots of other revenue streams. If global warming is causing skiing on Sandia not to be profitable then re-purpose the Tram area for something that will do some good for nature. Not something that will take away or disturb habitat for wildlife. I am sure the local bear, deer, coyotes and other wildlife don't want this monstrosity the mountain coaster in their neighborhood. They could get folks to visit if they turned the whole place into a nature retreat and nature preserve and still operate their restaurant. Greed has no shame.
