Comments: While I appreciate purgatory wanting to grow the mountain I believe it comes at the wrong time. It's great to be caught up in the new glittering object ahead but after the past three years it would be the absolute wrong choice for the longevity of the ski area. How many times did chair 1 break down this year. How many chair lifts all broke down at the same time this year. How many chair lifts broke down during a peak tourist time period. How many ski lifts are over 20 years old. How many lifts have been given next to zero funding for maintenance and upkeep. Now what about infrastructure, how unsightly, unkempt and falling apart all both mountain restaurants. With an increase in skier traffic can parking be improved, could the ski area invest in a town transportation system to reduce parking and emissions? Please. Please consider what is a serious issue to the operation.
