Comments: I urge you to act as a good steward of federally protected land. That does not include protecting privately owned livestock which denudes the land and overuses the water. It does include wild horses, burros, goats, sheep, and wolves etc. which do not denude the forage and thus encourage forest fires.

Acting as a good steward also does not include leasing federal land for private livestock grazing, oil, gas, mining or commercial fishing in pristine areas. Do not trust a guy or gal merely because they're wearing a cowboy hat. It's been done in the past with horrific results. They'll try to pay you off. Don't let them.
