Comments: I find it rather disturbing that cattle belonging to ranchers will be free to graze anywhere, while wild horses will be removed from their native homeland. In my opinion, the ranchers are making money on the free grazing cattle. Is that what this is about? Ranchers making money, while tearing out the wild horses that have perhaps known this area as their home for perhaps a millennia? It's too bad that nothing in our world is sacred except money. I suppose if we did it to the Native Americans, we can do it to anyone or any creatures that get in the way of making money. This is just not right. Very sad that our decision makers have come to favoring money over the lives of free spirits.
