Comments: Please reconsider your plan to round up and remove the majority of horses here. Wildlife should be given preference over cattle in National Forests. This is in the interest of most Americans, not just cattle farmers. The majority of American would prefer to see wildlife including wild horses on their land, not cattle which destroy the land and vegetation and are detrimental to climate. The number of horses you plan to leave is too small for them to survive there and your calculations do not take in account all the land the horses use including reservation land. Please stop pleasing only special interests and do what is best for wildlife, wild places and Americans.
