Comments: Attached is a photo of myself, enjoying the peace and quiet of the outdoors near rapid river. When there is already a multitude of dirt bike allowed paths in Idaho, what is the need to add another and wreck the serenity of this special space? Some may argue that motorized vehicles and hikers should be able to share the land, but how are we to do this when the trails are dug up or more are added, and the air is buzzing with the sound of there presence??? It not only affect the area physically, but it also ruins the ambiance of being out in nature.
