Comments: The Sandia Mountains are a very special outdoor area for all who choose to go there to experience the wonder of the outdoors in a natural environment. To degrade the mountain by removing old tree growth and creating man made entertainment structures is a degrading use of natural resources. The mountain provides solace from the city. It gives meaning to our existence. The environmental impact is detrimental to the natural environment. Plants, animals, flora, birds, and atmosphere are affected. We, as humans, are trying to save the environment. This roller coaster for entertainment does nothing to preserve our mountain. We do not need it and the human impact that would occur, such as litter, noise pollution, and further degradation of flora must not be allowed to happen. To put money and entertainment above the life of our mountain would be too sad. This project is not needed.
